LOVE LIGHTENS LABOR.

A good wife rose from her bed one morn.
 And thought with a nervous dread
Of the piles of clothes to be washed, and more
 Than a dozen mouths to be fed,
There's the meals to get for the men in the field,
 And the children to fix away
To school, and the milk to be skimmed and churned;
 And all to be done to-day.

It had rained in the night, and all the wood
 Was wet as it could be;
There were puddings and pies to bake beside
 A loaf of cake for tea.
And the day was hot and the aching head
 Throbbed wearily as she said,
"If maidens but knew what good wives know
 They would not be in haste to wed!"

"Jennete what do you think I told Ben Brown?"
 Called the farmer from the well;
And a flush crept up to his bronzed brow,
 And his eyes half bashfully fell;
"It was this," he said, and coming near
 He smiled, and stooping down,
Kissed her cheek—"'Twas this, that you were the best,
 And the dearest wife in town!"

The farmer went back to the field, and the wife
 In a smiling absent way,
Sang snatches of tender little songs,
 She'd not sung for many a day.
And the pain in her hand was gone, and the clothes
 Were white as the foam of the sea;
Her bread was light, and her butter was sweet,
 And as golden as it could be.

"Just think," the children all called in a breath,
 "Tom Wood has run off to sea!
He wouldn't I know, if he'd only had
 As happy a home as we."
The night came down and the good wife smiled
 To herself, as she softly said:
"'Tis so sweet to labor for those we love,
 It is not strange that maids will wed!"

AFLOAT UPON THE ICE.

A TALE OF THE SAINT LAWRENCE.

It was one day last February, when the noble St. Lawrence was covered with ice as bright as crystal and as smooth as a mirror, that in company with Letty Mordaunt, I went out skating. The ice was over a foot in thickness, but a strong wind had a few days previously opened a channel in the centre of the river, in which much loose ice was floating. Lettie had never before had a pond to skate upon that would compare with it, and, as she was an accomplished skater, she was delighted. I have always maintained that a pretty girl never appears to better advantage that when she is engaged in skating; and I had always thought Lettie was a very pretty girl and had become quite captivated by her charms; but she never appeared half so lovely to me as upon this occasion; and as we went boldly forward, or circled in the most graceful manner, you may depend that I enjoyed myself highly, and think she did also.

The river is about two miles in width where were skating, and in the distance were to be seen the several islands that lie a short distance above the Gallop Rapids, and are famed for their power, which is so great that no vessel can approach within a considerable distance of the lower part of them. There is a single channel thro' which steamers are sometimes piloted at favorable seasons of the year; but to attempt to pass them out of the channel, or without skillful pilotage, would be the maddest of folly.

There were a considerable number of skaters out with us; but we struck out boldly for the centre of the river and soon were at a considerable distance from them. We did not stop until within a few rods of the open water, knowing as we did that the ice was sufficiently strong to bear us. We had skated three or four miles, and felt the necessity of resting a few moments, and accordingly stood for a while, gazing upon the blue waters of the flowing river and the surrounding scenery, which is very fine. I rather think that I cast an occasional glance at the features of my fair companion, which were radiant with the glow of excitement occasioned by the exercise of skating. We stood there rather longer than we intended to, for we carried on an animated conversation and the moments passed swiftly. At length Lettie suddenly remarked:

"Look where we are."

"I see," said I, not comprehending her meaning. "Had you forgotten it?"

"We are farther down the river than we were when we stopped. We were then opposite to that windmill," pointing to the ruins of one that stood upon the opposite bank, a relic of the last century, about half a mile above us.

Somewhat surprised at this, I looked around us, and was not long in discovering the cause of the change. We we were afloat! The ice upon which we were standing had become separated from the main body and carried away by the action of the current. As it was a large piece, being at least one eight of a mile in extent, I felt no very great apprehension in regard to our safety, thinking it would soon float against the edge of the firm ice, so that we could easily get off it, and so have the occurrence to remember only as a pleasant adventure. I assured Lettie that there was no danger, and we patiently waited for the current to release us from captivity upon our floating island, continuing our conversation as cheerfully as before. My expectations were not fulfilled, for in about half an hour we had reached the open river where the rapidity of the current had either carried away the ice or prevented its formation, and now the fearful truth flashed upon my mind we are going directly towards the Gallop Rapids, and at a rate that would bring us to them in less than an hour.

Lettie must have noticed the expression of my countenance, for she clung to me and said:

"Do not fear to alarm me by telling me the worst. Are we in very great danger?"

"I am afraid that we are," I replied; "but keep up your courage and we will hope for the best."

Eagerly I scanned the surrounding land, hoping to observe some one whose attention I might attract. I skated round the edges of the ice and halloed as loudly as possible, but the wind made it impossible for me to be heard at any great distance, and we were unnoticed. It now blew quite violently, and caused the water to run over the ice, rendering it quite difficult for us to stand up, and breaking up the ice that we were upon, rendering it still smaller and threatening to hasten our doom. On we drifted, hope fading as we passed onward, and the voice of death seeming to sound in the distant roar of the rapids that was now to be faintly heard in the distance. I gave up all hope of attracting attention, and returned to Lettie.

"Be as firm and brave as possible," said I addressing her; "for unless there is a special intervention in our behalf, I do not see what can save us from running into the rapids. The ice will be dashed to pieces, and we must perish."

I had feared that she would be overcome at hearing this; but, altho' as pale as the ice that we were standing upon, and hardly able to stand without support, she bore it bravely.

"Is there no hope?" she faintly inquired, her tone indicating that she did not expect an affirmative answer.

"I see no possible chance of escape," I replied; and our speed continued to increase and louder grew the roar of the rapids as we neared them.

"How long will it be before we shall reach them?" she asked.

"We cannot have but a few minutes longer to spend on earth," I replied.

She leaned upon me, but I felt stronger when supporting her than when alone. I saw no way to avert our fate, and expected to be in eternity in a short time. Although life was dear to me, I would most willingly have relinquished it, by so doing hers could have been saved. Yet the fate that decreed that we were to die together, robbed it of all its terrors as far as I was concerned. It was then I realized how much I loved her, and I felt I could not die without telling her of it.

"Lettie," said I, "we shall soon be at the rapids, but I cannot die without telling you how dear you are to me. I would quickly sacrifice my life to save yours; but this is denied me. If we were spared I would offer you the homage of a lifetime. Will you now accept it for all eternity?"

A faint flush overspread her cheeks as I ceased speaking, the last time I thought that they would ever be crimsoned before they were cold in death. She clung still closer to me, and a firmer pressure of the hand was the sufficient and only answer. I felt that I was loved!

For a few moments we were both silent. I noticed that her tears were flowing, and the sight of them almost caused me to lose my self-possession. We had already passed several of the islands that stud the river immediately above the rapids, and our rate of speed was constantly increasing. I drew her closely to me and endeavored to prepare myself for the approaching moment, when we would go down together to a watery grave My mind was busy, and I wondered how long it would be before our fate would be known; of the various conjectures that our disappearance would give rise to; and where our bodies would be found, or if they would become entangled among the rocks and our fates known and if in the death-struggle we could still maintain hold of each other, and our spirits soar in unison. I also wondered in what manner our deaths would be announced in the journals of the day. Whether it would be a "melancholy accident," or if we were found clinging to each other, or as a "romantic casualty," and fancied what the emotions of various persons would be when they learned of it These reflections were all stopped by my noticing a fisherman's hut upon an island only a short distance from us, with a couple of men engaged at work in front of it.

I pointed it out to Lettie, and said, "We may yet be saved, if I can only attract their attention. Have courage and I will attempt it."

I left her and proceeded to the extreme edge of the ice nearest to the island, and then gathering all my breath for an effort called to them.— As our lives depended upon the result, of course, I made a much louder noise than I could upon an ordinary occasion, although my emotion was at first so great that I could hardly control my voice. At length I succeeded, and had the satisfaction of seeing a boat put out after us. Although were at some distance from them, and going very rapidly, I had no doubt that they would overtake us. Just as everything seemed to be well again, I was surprised to hear a cry from Lettie, which caused me to look round quickly. I was startled by the new aspect of affairs. The ice, owing to the action of the waves, and my weight upon one edge it, had parted, and we were upon separate pieces. Lettie had sunk down upon the ice and was gazing earnestly towards me. The pieces of ice were caught in eddies and went off in opposite channels; but it was with the greatest delight that I saw the boatman row after her, leaving me to my fate, and when I had passed the island and looked back, I saw that she was rescued.

"Safe in the boat! my feelings almost overcame me; and if ever I earnestly returned thanks to an overruling Providence, it was then. Although I was at a considerable distance from her, I caught a last glance, and saw that, although almost fainting, she was gazing after me. I knew that the boatman would not think of following me, for I was now upon the edge of the rapids. The principal events of my life passed rapidly in review thro' my mind, and my memory was very active; but the sweetest remembrance of all was of that moment during the last hour, when Lettie confessed that she loved me.

The last hope had fled, and I was calculating the moments that would elapse before the ice would be dashed to pieces, when turning round to take a farewell look at earth and sky, I saw a canoe, propelled by a couple of skillful voyagers, coming rapidly after me; but although it fairly seemed to skip over the waves, it hardly seemed to gain on me. The water dashed over the cake of ice, and I was wet and almost insensible. The pursuing craft reached me just in time to save me, and I saw that it was one of light birch-bark, and that my rescuers were Canadian Indians. It was drawn out upon the ice, and I was placed in the bottom of it and cautioned to lie perfectly still. Then, launching it, they seized their paddles and devoted their energies to the management of their frail craft. It was impossible to proceed back, so over the rapids we went. No craft other than like the one that we were in, and guided by experienced persons, would have ever gone through safely. Now running within a few inches of a rock, now circling around the outer edge of an eddy, and then skipping over the boiling waters and plunging down a waterfall. A motion of mine or a false strike of theirs would have capsized us and sent us all into eternity. But we were safe; and I quickly rejoined Lettie, who soon recovered from the effects of her ride.

I rewarded my rescuers as well as money could do so, for snatching me from the jaws of destruction, and they were more than satisfied.

Lettie and I will soon be joined in wedlock; and I hope that our voyage down the stream of life may be more pleasant than was our excursion down the St. Lawrence.

PANIC IN A CHURCH.—The Wheeling (W. Va.) Register of Feb. 28th, says: Last evening an immense crowd gathered at the Island M. E. Church to hear Rev. Mr. Webb's sermon. It being the end of the conference year, more persons were in the church than ever gathered in it before. Just as the preacher had given out his text the joists under the center of the floor parted with a crash like the roar of artillery, and the floor commenced settling.

The scene that ensued beggars description. Some rushed for the doors, but could not get out for the pressure of the crowd behind them. Women fainted; others uttered wild cries of fear and terror. Men tried to get out of the windows or to push their wives out. One enterprising man, finding that he could not move the bottom sash of a window, and that the one was partly down, climed up the window and jumped out. He picked himself off the ground somewhat bruised. As soon as the first scare was over, and the persons who remained cool got the others quieted, all got out uninjured. Fortunately, there is no basement under the church, and the floor could only sink about a foot before striking the ground. Had the audience remembered this, the excitement would have been unnecessary.

John Robinson's circus met with a singular experience recently in Florida. A keeper attempted to ford a neck of the Chatahoochee swamp with his anamals, but the alligators swarmed in overwhelming numbers and ate up a camel, a colt and two dogs, during the passage, The elephant, another camel and another horse fought fiercely and escaped. The battle between the brutes and the alligators and among the alligators themselves for the prey was awful.

A Strange Story.

The London Herald tells the following story:

Not many years since certain miners, working far under ground, came upon the body of a poor fellow who had perished in the suffocating pit 40 years before. Some chemical agent to which the body had been subjected —an agent prepared in the labratory of nature—had effectually arrested the progress of decay. They brought it up to the surface, and for a while, till it crumbled through exposure to the atmosphere, it lay the image of a fine sturdy young man. No convulsion had passed over the face in death— the features were tranquil; the hair was as black as jet.

No one had recognized the face—a generation had grown since the miner went down into his shaft for the last time. But a tottering old woman, who had hurried from her cottage at hearing the news, came up, and she knew again the face which, through all these long years, she had not forgotten.

The poor miner was to be her husband on the day after that on which he died.

They were rough people, of course, who were looking on; a liberal education and refined feelings are not deemed essential to the man whose work is to get up coal or even tin; but there were no dry eyes when the grey-headed old pilgrim cast herself upon the youthful corpse, and poured into its deaf ear many words of endearment unused for forty-six years. It was a touching contrast; the one so old, the other so young. They had both been young those long years ago, but time had gone on with the living, and stood still with the dead.

The Archbishop of Bordeaux thus describes a case of somnambulism in a young priest: He was in the habit of writing sermons when asleep, and although a card was placed between his eyes and the note book, he continued to writen vigorously. After he had written a page requiring correction, a piece of blank paper of the exact size was submitted for his own manuscript, and on that he made the corrections in the precise situation, which they would have occupied on the original page. A very astonishing part of this is that which relates to his writing music in his sleeping state, which it is said he did with perfect precision. He asked for certain things, and saw and heard such things, that only such things as bore directly upon the subject of his thoughts. He detected the deceit when water was given to him in the place of brandy which he asked for. Finally, he knew nothing of all that had transpired when he awoke, but in his next paroxysm he remembered all accurately—and so lived a sort of double life, a phenomenon which is said to be universal in all the cases of exalted somnambulism.

RICH SILVER MINE.—A very respectable gentleman, a physician, who resides near Louisville, informs the Courier-Journal that he discovered a silver mine of unparalleled richness in Grayson county, Kentucky. He is the possessor of the secret of discovering the presence of buried and hidden metals, and while prospecting and experimenting upon a tract of 4000 acres which he owns in that county, he discovered a deposit of nearly pure silver. He says that he has taken out a number of pieces of the ore, which, upon being assayed, were found to contain a larger per cent. of silver than any ore hitherto discovered. The mine is almost inexhaustible. White Pine is a mere pocket compared with this mine. The national debt could be paid from the product of this mine and not be missed. The gentleman is confident that he has got a big thing, and as soon as the roads get good in the spring he will commence the work of developing the mine in earnest.

MARK TWAIN's last was a very palpable hit considered where it was delivered. The place was the "Hub" and he was lecturing on the Sandwich Islands. Speaking of the cannibals, he said: "At this point I usually illustrate cannibalism before the audience; but I am a stranger here, and diffident about asking favors. However," he continued, "if there is any lady present who is willing to contribute a baby for the purpose of the lecture, I should be glad to know it now. I am aware, though, that children have become scarce and high of late, having been thinned out by neglect and ill treatment since the woman movement began."

A judge in Sauk Rapids, Minnesota, combines with his judicial duties the business of provision dealer. A newspaper speaks of having seen a nice fat beef hanging up in the court room while a case was on trial, besides bins of grain and feed, and sacks of flour strewed about the room. His honor was often obliged to leave the bench to attend to his customers, the excited lawyers, in the meantime, grinding their tobacco between their teeth, while they waited impatiently for his return.

In France, M. Olliver says there are now 1,200 Roman Catholic Priests who earn their livelihood by sweeping the streets as cadmen. These are chiefly the victims of episcopal despotism, the bishops having the power of turning them out of their parishes. Great discontent is felt, and revolt is threatened.

The discussion in reference to the infallibility of the Pope at Rome, it appears, will end in recognizing the fact that he is not infallible.

The taxation of the country will be reduced at least thirty, and perhaps thirty-five million dollars by the revised internal revenue bill. So be it.

Wisconsin did not listen to the appeals and clamors of those who want hanging re-established in that State, but has refused to restore the death penalty.

A Chinaman has found his way to Brooklyn, and advertises that he is ready to do "general housework" in some family. He shouldn't want long for an occupation, having come so far.

A man named Terence Cassiday who threatened President Grant with assassination while walking on Pennsylvania avenue, in Washington, was pronounced insane and sent to the Government Insane Asylm.

The colored people of Georgia have a protest against Bingham's amendment to the Georgia bill, the result of which, they allege, will be to deliver them bound hand and foot into the hands of their most bitter and relentless enemies.

An immense religious revival is announced in Cincinnati. In fifty churches in that city and suburbs, 2092 have thus far been added. Of this number but one person is over 70 and but thirty-seven between 50 and 70.

The Maryland Democrats are discussing what they shall do with the enfranchised negroes of that State.—Some of the leaders of the party advise resistance to the fifteenth amendment, but in what way, does not appear.

The President, it is said, is engaged in writing the Proclamation announcing the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment. It will be issued as soon as Texas and Georgia are re-admitted to representation in Congress, which will be in a few days.

Gov. Stearns, Republican, has been re-elected Governor of New Hampshire, by about 900 majority. This is a great falling off in his majority since last year, but is owing to the fact that there were four tickets in the field—Republican, Democratic, Temperance and Labor Reform.

The steamer Smidt, from New York, was caught in a hurricane on the 27th of January, in the North Atlantic.—Her piston rod was broken and the machinery somewhat loosened; but she weathered the storm without the loss of one life, and arrived safely in New York harbor on the 10th inst,

There appears to be a general impression among the financiers in Congress, the recent sudden and continued decline in the price of gold is by no means permanent, and that, although it may fall to 110, yet it will for some time fluctuate between that figure and 120. The probabilities are, however, that it will not rise above the last named figure.

The Border Raid Bill has received the endorsement of the Committee of Ways and Means of the lower branch of the Legislature. It is said that they were moved to do this by "the pathetic appeals of a member from Franklin." If such is the case that the Committee is so easily prevailed upon by pathos to vote away millions of the people's money, and thereby increase their taxes, we hope the members of both Houses will not be moved through sympathy to do likewise.

The Census.—For the first time since 1800, the State and National census will be taken in the same year. The National census is taken every ten years, and the State enumeration of taxables, upon which legislative apportionment is based, every seven years. The multiples of seven and ten only concur every seventy years, and hence no living voter in October, 1870 can expect to live to 1940, when these will again concur. The National census is to be taken on the first day of June in every ten years, and the State census on the first day of November every seven years. What the National census contains is generally understood. The State census is to be of the resident taxable inhabitants, male and female, in each assessment district of the State; also, of all slaves, (this is played out) deaf, dumb and blind persons, their age, sex and color. This aggregate of male and female taxables serves as the basis of representation in the Senate and House of Representatives at Harrisburg for the ensuing seven years. For example, if the taxables of the whole State should be 800,000, then the ratio for a Senator would be about 24,200 and for a member of the House 8,000.

Four young ladies and a young man were on Sunday week baptized in Rum river, Minnesota, while the thermometer marked 12 degrees below zero

The Funding Bill.

The United States Senate on Saturday passed, with some slight modifications, the Funding Bill reported from the Finance Committee by Senator Sherman. The bill authorizes three loans of $400,000,000 each, in denomination not less than fifty dollars, and payable in coin at the pleasure of the Government after ten and at 40 years from date; the 2nd after 15 and at 40 years; and the third after twenty and at forty years. The first series, or ten forties, are to bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum; the second series, or fifteen forties, are to bear interest at four and a half per cent.; and the twenty-forties interest at four per cent. These bonds the Secretary is authorized to dispose of under such regulations as he shall prescribe, within the United States or elsewhere, at not less than their par value in coin, or they may be exchanged for any of the outstanding bonds of an equal aggregate par value heretofore issued and known as the 5-20 bonds. The proceeds of so much of the loan as may be disposed of for coin are to be placed in the Treasury, to be used for the redemption of such 6 per cent bonds as may be offered in exchange, or to replace such amounts of coin as may have been used for that purpose. The bonds authorized by this act are exempt from all taxation under national, State or municipal authority.

The bill will commend itself to the people of the United States as a practical method for funding the public debt, and the new loans authorized under it will undoubtedly become popular and be speedily taken up. The effect of the bill will be to place our financial affairs upon a more stable and satisfactory basis than heretofore, and to inspire a hope that we will be able to relieve ourselves of the burden of our debt with comparative ease and within a reasonable time.

More than 360,000 beef cattle, 65,000 calves, 700,000 swine and 1,200,000 sheep are every year consumed by New York City alone. When we consider this enormous total and then estimate the number that is shipped principally from the Western States to all the Eastern cities, is not enough to fill us with wonder. Then take this also into consideration: A writer states that the journeys of the cattle marketed in the several cities of the United States are from five hundred to two thousand miles in distance, by direct railway communication, taking from five to eighteen days in transit, including the time spent in unloading to feed and water." We cannot enter into the details which this writer gives in illustration of the sufferings inflicted upon all classes of animals on these long journeys. We believe it is not necessary. We believe the facts are known, and if they are not known, or not accepted as true, it is easy for almost every reader to satisfy himself on the subject by actual examination. One side of the subject has already received a good deal of attention. We mean the production of diseased meat as the result of the torture of the animals. No doubt, in this way the community has been greatly injured. But really this does not seem to us the worst or the darkest aspect of the subject. It is not to be doubted that the aggregate of misery which these millions of defenseless creatures are made to undergo, is an awful crime against God as well as a blot upon our civilization.

The strong vitality of the Methodist Church is shown in the amazing progress it has made in the State of New York. There are now 2,275 members in the ministerial force of the connection. The total lay membership is 182,955. Without reckoning the Sunday school teachers, there are upward of 32,000 persons taking an active part in church work. One school can boast of 881 pupils. The amount of money collected during the past year was very large, and the highest salary paid to any of the pastors or official is five thousand dollars. The value of church edifices has advanced over 140 per cent in nine years, of parsonages over 164 per cent, while the number of members has increased more than ten per cent. The educational branches have advanced at a similar rate. At the Convention sitting in Syracuse upward of $200,000 were subscribed toward the foundation of a university.

A physician was very much annoyed by an old lady who was always sure to accost him in the street for the purpose of telling over her ailments. Once she met him when he was in a great hurry. "Ah! I see you are quite feeble," said the doctor. "Shut your eyes and show me your tongue." She obeyed, and the doctor, moving off, left her standing there some time in this ridiculous position, to the infinite amusement of all who witnessed the funny scene.

Send a Paper.—Horace Greeley says: "Every parent whose son is away from home at school should furnish him with a home newspaper. I well remember what a marked difference there was between those of my schoolmates who had not newspapers. The former were always superior to the latter in debate, composition, and general intelligence."

A physician and an undertaker reside in the same house in Boston, and it occasioned an awkward mistake a day or two ago.

THE ONEIDA DISASTER.

The following are extracts from a letter of Surgeon James Suddards of the Oneida to his father, the Rev. Wm. Suddards, D. D., of Philadelphia, who has kindly furnished it to the New York Associated Press for publication. The letter is dated at Yokohama, Jan. 31:—

We left Yokohama at 5 p. m., on 24th, and at 6:45 were run into by the Bombay on the starboard quarter, the whole of which was carried away—She struck us full with her sharp iron stern and cut everything off as with a chisel. The wheel, steering gear, spanker boom and gaff, and poop cabin were all carried away, and in fifteen minutes the Oneida sank in fourteen fathoms water, and out of a personnel of 25 officers and 150 men, 4 officers and 54 men are left to tell the tale.

The ward-room dinner was just finishing at the moment of collision. It seemed to me as if the whole side of the ship was coming bodily in on the dinner table. We all rushed on deck immediately. Everything, of course, was in the greatest confusion. As I stepped over the hatch combing I saw a large steamer just clearing us. She was hailed by our executive officer and requested to lay by us, but so far as I could judge she steamed away as fast as she could go.

I walked aft on the quarter deck and saw that everything was smashed to pieces. I then looked over the quarter and saw the extent of the damage. I believed then that the ship would go down in two minutes, and rapidly concluded that every one must look out for himself. As I realized the position I noticed that the ward-room boat, which hung at the port quarter, was manned by twelve or fourteen men.

I jumped on the rail and asked if an officer was in the boat. The men said no, and seeing who I was they said: "Jump in, Doctor," and seizing hold of me two or three of them dragged me into the boat. I at once took charge, ordering a man at each fall to lower when ordered, having first cut all the fastenings with knives. We staid there until within three or four minutes of the ship going down. During this time the boatswain and two or three men got into the boat, making the whole number seventeen.

We were still hanging at the davits when the ship began to roll in that peculiar way which precedes foundering, and the boat was dashed against the side of the ship threatening to dash her to pieces. I looked on deck, saw no one abaft the mainmast, and gave orders to lower away and hang by the falls.

The after fall got jammed and had to be cut with a knife. Had we been three minutes longer at the davits it would have been too late, as she went down like a shot after darting, and the suction would have carried our boat down with the wreck. I may mention here that when the boat was brought up to the Idaho, she nearly sank alongside, and on examination it was found that seven knees were broken on the star-board side, and one of the planks knocked an inch out of place. This must have been done by striking the side of the ship, and convinces me that we could not have saved any more in our boat, as she would have filled and gone down with a heavier load. As the coxswain cut the fall a junk was seen close by under sail. We started for her, intending to bring her alongside if possible and save life. Being under sail, however, and going free, she rapidly left us, and in about two or three minutes we gave it up, and turning to go back to the ship, found that she had disappeared. We pulled to where we thought she had been, but seeing and hearing nothing finally headed for shore, and landed about 8:30. I at once went up to a Japanese house, engaged three guides, and started off for Yokohama, twenty-five or thirty miles distant.—crossed five mountains on our way, and had the most fatiguing tramp you can imagine.

We arrived, however, all safe at 4 o'clock, on the morning of the 25th, when I spread the news and sent down assistance to the wreck. The vessel was found yesterday; but no bodies as yet. The English Consular Court is investigating the matter. All the officers of the Bombay have been examined our turn will come to-morrow. Mr. DeLong, the American Minister, is conducting the proceedings on our behalf. I landed on shore in an undress uniform, without a cap, and only saved by watch by having it on.

I have been very much shattered by the occurrence and subsequent fatigue, but am now much better and begin to feel like myself. All Yokohama has been extremely kind, invitations to stay at private houses pouring in from all quarters. The feeling against the captain of the Bombay for not stopping is intense, and if the court attempt to whitewash him violence may be attempted.

No vessel that has ever been in the eastern waters was so popular as the Oneida Even the English officers say they would much rather the misfortune had happened to one of their own vessels. Of the twelve officers eating dinner at the time of the collision, I am the only one left.

INCIDENTS.

Lieutenant-Commander Stewart and Ensign Adams went to fire the alarm guns, and ascertained that one of the men at the wheel who was killed and swept overboard, had the key to the magazine in his pocket. Together they forced the door, and together aided in firing three guns, but before the fourth could be fired the water had gained so rapidly that the heavy gun and iron carriage slipped and went down the hatchway, carrying with it Ensign Adams and crushing him to instant death.

Ensign Charles A. Copp was in charge of the "berth deck," and, after seeing all the sick and invalid seamen removed to the deck, returned below to his post of duty. A comrade hailed him to come on deck, as the ship was going down. "No," said Ensign Copp, "I am stationed here, and cannot come until relieved." Noble boy! brave youth! "Not until relieved." As his young voice firmly uttered those noble words the wild waves of the cruel sea engulfed the ship.

A young Couple Drowned on the Eve of their Marriage.

The Galena Gazette of a recent date says: A young man named Joseph Ridiough and a young lady named Lizzie La Shelle were drowned on the night of the 26th inst., in Plum river, which runs through the eastern part of this county, under particularly painful circumstances. An attachment had existed between the young man and the young lady for some time, and their marriage was to have taken place yesterday, had Providence spared their lives; but, sad to relate, on the above night the young couple, accompanied by Mr. Hainscough and a younger brother of the lady, in returning from an entertainment at Savannah, attempted to ford the river at the usual crossing place, over the breast of the dam. The river, however, had risen, and when they were about half way across the horses stopped and refused to proceed any farther. Mr. Hainscough alighted, and discovering that they were in danger, returned to the wagon, removed some of his clothing, and then made his way to the heads of the horses, telling young Ridiough to pull their heads up stream, but owing to the excitement occasioned by their perilous position the wrong line was pulled, and the horses, wagon, and all four of the party were swept by the irresistible force of the current over the dam. Young La Shelle swam to the shore, landing at a place about one hundred yards below the dam. The horses were taken out alive the next morning. Nothing has since been heard of the young man and the lady. The young man was employed in the woollen-mill at Hanover. This is the second couple that have been drowned on the eve of their marriage, in Plum river.

As Dr. Dwight once passed through a region of very poor land, he said to a farmer: "Sir, I perceive your land here is not very productive." "No, sir," said the honest farmer; "our land is just like self righteousness."—"Ah! how is that?" "Why, the more a man has of it, the poorer he is."

☞An important legal decision has just been given in West Chester, this State. A man named Walker left an umbrella in his wagon, and on returning to it a few minutes after found the umbrella had disappeared. On his way home he overtook one named Morris in a heavy rain, with the umbrella. After hearing the case, the Court sentenced Morris to one months' imprisonment, the costs and a fine of $1. It is thus judiciously determined that umbrellas are property.

On the Wing.

Thursday next is St. Patrick's day.

John B. Gough lectures in Hollidaysburg on the 29th inst.

A steer, recently slaughtered in Juniata county, weighed 1298 pounds.

The Williamsburg Temperance Vindicator, it is reported, has been sold by the Sheriff.

A number of Bedford county citizens intend moving to Tennessee this spring.

Mifflin had an excitement last week in the shape of a $100 fire. That's a poor local.

Waltzing has been defined to be hugging set to music. Such is the style in vogue in Huntingdon.

On Thursday next the school directors of the county will decide whether or not the salary of the Superintendent shall be raised.

The Cambria county spelling battle didn't come off, according to announcement. One of the directors got squawkish about some thing, and the thing fizzled out.

A great revival is progressing in Cassville, this county. Upwards of sixty conversions have taken place among the inmates of the Soldier's Orphans School.

The editor of the Somerset Standard lately received two gold dollars for one year's subscription. The editors looked at them fifteen minutes to see if they were genuine.

On the 7th inst., Mr. George Mitchell, an employee of the Huntingdon Manufacturing Company, got two middle fingers of his right hand cut off by coming in contact with a saw.

Dr. Williams has retired from the position of General Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and has been succeeded by A. J. Cassatt, Superintendent of Motive power and Machinery, at Altoona.

If anybody expects us to send him the Globe free by complimenting us, he is slightly mistaken. Your compliments do very well to tickle the fancy but they never did supply bread and butter to tickle the palate.

A paper in Indianapolis, Indiana, proposes that hereafter, instead of saying "let us sing the Doxology," the minister shall say "let us put on our overcoats, adjust our furs, slip on our gloves, grab our hats, look to the Lord and be dismissed."

In Mifflin the other day a little boy named Bloom struck another boy named Schellenberg, with a stone on the side of his head and fractured his skull. Bloom was arrested.—This is another warning to boys not to throw stones.

Three children—a daughter and two sons, of Mr. Daniel Strayer, of Croyle township, Cambria county, died of scarlet fever, between the 24th and 26th of February. The three children were buried in one grave on the 27th.

Mr. John Fuller, of East Providence twp., Bedford county, while riding a young colt, was thrown off and falling on his head, fractured his skull. He lingered a few days and expired. He never spoke a word after the accident.

Wouldn't it be well to start a co-operative manufacturing company in our town for the one hundred or more artisans who are out of employment during winter? It is not pleasant to hear our young men complaining of having nothing to do.

Rev. J. W. Plannett will deliver a Temperance sermon in the Baptist Church on Sabbath morning next at 10½ o'clock. Our people, who have not heard a temperance lecture or sermon for some time, should avail themselves of this opportunity.

The Bedford Gazette makes us say that every family in Huntingdon has a hog in it. We said no such thing; we do say that almost every family in our town has enterprise enough to keep a hog, in a pen, and we fear that is more than can be said of the enterprise of slow-coach Bedford.

A man named Rohrer, aged sixty-three years, committed suicide in a hardware store in Harrisburg on the 10th inst. He had bought a pistol, which the dealer loaded for him, and as the latter went to the rear part of the store Rohrer put the barrel of the pistol in his mouth, discharged it and fell dead in a few minutes.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that deeds given for the purpose of transferring the title to land from husband to wife, through the intervention of a trustee, with a merely nominal consideration, require only a five cent stamp each, as agreements or contracts not specially designated in stamp schedule "B." They do not require a conveyance stamp, as really it is not sold.

Our Legislature has passed a bill making it a penal offence for persons who sell milk to adulterate the same with water. A person that does so, shall be barred from any right to recover pay for the same. Any person convicted of selling impure, adulterated or unwholesome milk shall pay a fine of not less than fifty dollars or imprisonment of not less than thirty days, or both.

Served Him Right.—In a certain house in the limits of our borough lives a young colored girl, who is a domestic for the family occupying the house.—One day last week she was the heroine in the following rare but actual occurrence: Early in the morning a well-known colored man (who, by the way, is a married man and a leading member of the African Zion church,) called at the house and inquired for a wood-saw; the lady of the house gave it to him, when he returned it later in the day. Previous to returning the saw, however, he came to the house, and had made arrangements with the colored girl for certain accommodations in the cellar. The girl acquainted the lady of the house with the foul intentions of the man, and told her not to be uneasy if she heard any noise in the cellar. When the colored man came back with the saw, he at once repaired in search of the girl, who when he found, invited him into the cellar, but before he had time to meditate further what he should do, the girl seized a billet of wood and belaboured him over the head and shoulders so effectually that he beat a hasty retreat from the cellar, through the yard, and out the alley on to the pavement; she following and trouncing him mercilessly. We'll wager our hat he will not go there again.

Such is the treatment every man, whether white or black, should receive from the hands of a woman when she knows it is his intention to assail her virtue. If more of such summary punishment was inflicted, the morals of our community would be improved. We publish it merely as an illustration of what should and can be done by a woman in like circumstances.

The Bodies of the Condemned.—As some may be curious to know what disposition has been made of the bodies of Bohner and Bodenberg, we relate. On Wednesday Sheriff Neely had appointed two colored men to bury them. They took the bodies to an open lot in the northeast portion of the town in the evening; but both the gravediggers got drunk and left the job before it was completed, and neither of the bodies were buried. On Thursday morning the Sheriff appointed another party to finish it, but while doing so the borough authorities interfered and would not allow them to be buried within the borough limits. The bodies were then taken to a field a short distance from town where they were interred, with nothing but the mound to mark the spot.

Another Thief.—On last Saturday a colored citizen of the female persuasion, visited a girl living at Mr. M. S. Lytle's. In taking her leave a pair of gum shoes, lying in the hall, stuck to her fingers and followed her home.—On Sunday night she went to the colored church, when the girl living at Mr. L.'s discovered the gums upon her feet. After church she demanded the shoes, when the thief took flight and was pursued by the cook and another girl. She was overtaken near the Lutheran church, and obliged to surrender the shoes. Her pursuers then inflicted some blows on her head with the gums, when she frightened the girls by some wicked threats and chased them home.

Dr. Gleason's Lectures.—Dr. Gleason has been delivering a course of lectures on the human system, in the Court House, since Wednesday last. We have attended those lectures, embracing those on the Heart, Lungs, Brain, and Senses, and derived from each a fund of knowledge that is useful and important. The Doctor makes no friend of quacks or quack medicines; the foolish maidens who wear tight corsets and the foolish gents who chew tobacco and smoke cigars, have no sympathy from him; and every class that entertains false notions or indulge in wrong practices receives a word of reprimand and caution that it would be well for everybody to hear and heed.

☞ We are always glad to hear from those who have something to say, and especially pleased when they say it in as few words as possible. We receive a great many communications which serve the single purpose of proving that a great many persons have little idea about writing for publication. We invite facts, and will be glad to receive them in almost any garb. So long as the fact is there, we will attend to the rest. But long-winded disquisitions on subjects interesting chiefly to the writers, we have no room for. Neither have we for more controversy.

☞ We are sending out bills to a number of our subscribers, which we hope they will consider as duns or notices to pay up when an opportunity offers—say at April Court. Some of the bills date too far back for either our satisfaction or the subscribers'. A large bill is much harder to pay than a small one. We want all our subscribers to pay inside of the year for which they subscribe. We are thankful to those who have paid up. tf

☞ The most popular Cook Stove in the market is The Eclipse, for sale by A. R. Stewart & Co. mh9-4t

☞ Go to Red Front for Glassware Queensware, Stoneware, Willow and Cedarware, etc., etc.

A Schoolboy on the Editor.—The editor is one of the most happiest animals in the world, especially if some of his subscribers won't pay. He can go to the circus, afternoon and evening, without paying a cent—that is, if he will do a great deal of printing for a few tickets; he can also go to hangings and inquests. He has free tickets to picnics and strawberry festivals, if he is troubled with the "big head," and has more brass than brains. Get wedding cakes sent to him, and sometimes gets a licking, but not often, for he can take things back in the next issue, which he generally does. I never knew but one editor to get licked. His paper busted that day and he couldn't get anything back. While others have to go to bed early, the editor can sit up late every night and see what is going on. The b'hoys think it is a grand thing to hang on till ten o'clock; that is, if they are once tight. When I am a man I mean to be an editor, so I can stay out late of nights. Then that will be bully. The editor don't have to saw wood or do any chopping, except with his scissors. Railroads get up excursions for him, knowing if they didn't he'd make them get up and git. In politics he don't care much which he goes for, if they're on his side. If they ain't, he goes for them anyway, so it amounts to nearly the same thing even if some "soft-heads" stop taking the paper. There is a great many people trying to be editors who can't, and some of them have been in the profession for years. If I was asked if I had rather have an education to be a circus rider, I should say, Let me be an editor. It is fun to be swindled by a scapegoat subscriber.

Buy a Home.—Every laboring poor man should buy himself a town lot, get that paid for, and then work to make the necessary improvement. A little here and a little there will in due time procure you a home of your own, and place you out of the landlord's grasp; remember that fifty dollars a year saved in rent, will in a very few years pay for your home, and the money it costs you to move and shift about, without any loss of furniture and time, pay the interest of a five hundred dollar judgment against your property, until you can gradually reduce it to nothing. You can all buy that way—why do you not risk it? If you fail you are no worse off—if you succeed, as any careful man is sure to do, you have made a home and established a business equal to another, which will start you in business.

Bread, Cakes, Candies, &c.—Mr. Luke Reilly, having become sole proprietor of the Union Steam Bakery and Candy Manufactory, in the rear of the Castillian Garden, in this place, announces to his friends and the public generally that he is prepared to make all kinds of Bread and Cakes in a satisfactory manner, and will furnish them at low rates to suit both rich and poor. He intends making Milk Bread, which has become so popular wherever introduced, and many new varieties of Bread and Cakes.

He will also supply wholesale and retail dealers with the choicest Plain and Fancy Confectioneries, at a cent a pound cheaper than can be had in Philadelphia. We recommend Mr. Reilly as a first class baker, and advise all to give him a call.

Mr. Vick's Seeds.—Although the season for gardening has not yet arrived, it is so rapidly approaching that our gardeners, and there are few in our town who have no garden, should attend to getting seeds—both flower and vegetable. We can not recommend a better or more liberal Seedman than Mr. James Vick, of Rochester, N. Y. He keeps a large and choice selection of Flower and Garden Seeds, and those who have tested them in former years have never been disappointed. An illustrated Floral Guide, which he furnishes at ten cents, (not half the cost,) will be of great assistance in making the necessary selection, and culture—Now is the time to make your selection.

A bill has been introduced into the Legislature to allow the Penna. Canal Company to vacate that portion of the canal between Hollidaysburg and Huntingdon, now but little used. There would be no objections, we think, to this bill passing, as with the canal closed and a railroad laid between the two points, every accommodation would be afforded to those who would desire to travel or traffic. Let it be done, and make Huntingdon the headwater of the canal, as has often been proposed.

Sad Affair.—A sad affair, says the Lewistown Gazette, occurred at Greenwood Furnace on Thursday, March 3, by a little son of J. Gregg, aged about three years, killing his sister, a babe only five months old, with a hammer. The child was lying in the cradle, and the boy struck her on the head with the hammer, no doubt in play or without intending to harm her, killing her instantly. No one was present at the time.

☞ A Literary Entertainment will be given in Huntingdon Academy, on Friday evening the 18th inst. Performances will consist of Select Orations, Original Essays, Recitations and Dialogues. Admission 25 cents. Tickets at the Bookstores. Exercises to commence at 7½ o'clock.

☞ McLanahan, Stone & Isett, Hollidaysburg, have the largest and best assortment of Garden and Flower Seeds in this vicinity. Send for Catalogue, 5 and 10 cent papers sent on receipt of money, post-paid. fe9 4m

Alexander T. Stewart says: "He who invests one dollar in business should invest one dollar in advertising." Robert Bonner says: "My success is owing to my liberality in advertising." Barnum said: "Liberal advertising made him a million dollars in ten years." Stephen Girard said: "Constant and persistent advertising is a sure prelude to wealth."

☞ A small electric battery has been applied to ordinary sewing machines, and has been found to operate them very successfully. Two small battery cups furnish excellent power for all ordinary machines, while three drive the needle with astonishing rapidity through ten thicknesses of material. The expense of operating by this means is said to be about five cents a day.

ROSADALIS
THE Great American Health Restorer, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and thousand of our best citizens.
Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis: send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.
Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore says:
I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as a very powerful alterative, I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of all alterative ingredients.
Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of scrofula and secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleaner of the blood I know no better remedy.
Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreesboro' Tennessee, says:
I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.
Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.
Rosadalis is sold by John Read and S. S. Smith, Huntingdon, Pa., and Druggists generally.

WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING.

BY HORACE GREELEY.

VI.

LAYING OFF A FARM—PASTURING.

Whoever finds himself the newly installed owner and occupant of a farm, should, before doing much beyond growing a crop in the ordinary way, study well its character, determine its capacities, make himself well acquainted with its peculiarities of soil and surface, with intent to make the most of it in his future operations. I would devote at least a year to this thoughtful observation and study.

To one reared amid the rugged scenery of New England, or on either slope of the Allegheny ridge, all prairie farms look alike, just as a European supposes this to be the case with all negroes. A better acquaintance will show the average prairie quarter section by no means an unbroken meadow, "level as a house floor," but diversified by water courses, "sloughs," and gentle acclivities—sometimes by considerable ravines and "barrens" or elevated "swales," thinly covered with timber, or brush, or both. But I will contemplate more especially a Northern farm, made up of hill and vale or glade, rocky ridge and skirting bog or other low-land, with a wood-lot on the rear or not far distant, and clumps or belts of timber irregularly lining brook and ravine or lurking in the angles and sinuosities of walls and wooden fences, and a ragged, mossy orchard sheltered in some quiet nook, or sprawling over some gravelly hill-side. A brook, nearly dry in August, gurgles down the hill-side or winds through the swamp; while fields moderately sloping here and nearly level there, interposed here and there, have severally been devoted, for a generation or more, alternately to grain and grass—the latter largely preponderating. We will suppose this farm to measure from 50 to 150 acres.

Now the young man who has bought or inherited this farm may be wholly and consciously unable to enter upon any expensive system of improvement for the next ten years—may fully realize that four or five days of each week must meantime be given to the growing or earning of present bread—yet he should none the less study well the capacities and adaptations of each acre, and mature a comprehensive plan for the ultimate bringing of each field into the best and most useful condition whereof it is susceptible, before he cuts a living tree or digs a solitary drain. He is morally certain of doing something—perhaps many things—that he will sadly wish undone, if he fails to study peculiarities and mature a plan before he begins to improve or to fit his several fields for profitable cultivation.

And the first selection to be made is that of a pasture, since I am compelled to use an old, familiar name for what should be essentially a new thing.—This pasture should be as near the centre of the farm as may be, and convenient to the barns and barnyard that are to be. It should have some shade, but no very young trees, should be dry and rolling, with an abundance of the purest living water. The smaller this pasture lot may be, the better I shall like it, provided you fence it very stoutly, connect it with the barn-yard by a lane if they are not in close proximity, and firmly resolve that outside of this lot, this lane, this yard and the adjacent stable, your cattle shall never be seen, unless on the road to market. Very possibly, the day may come wherein you will decide to dispense with pasturing altogether; but that is, for the present, improbable. One pasture you will have; if you live in the broad West, and purpose to graze extensively, it will doubtless be a large one; but permitting your stock to ramble in Spring and Fall all over your own fields—(and perhaps your neighbors' also)—in quest of their needful food, biting off the tops of the finer young trees, trampling down or breaking down some that are older, rubbing the bark off your growing fruit trees, and doing damage that years will be required to repair, I most vehemently protest against.

The one great error that misleads and corrupts mankind is the presumption that something may be had for nothing. The average farmer imagines that whatever of flesh or of milk may accrue to him from the food his cattle obtain by browsing over his fields or through his woods, is so much clear gain—that they do the needful work, while he pockets the net proceeds.—But the universe was framed on a plan which requires so much for so much; and this law will not submit to defiance or evasion. Under the unnatural, transitory conditions which environ the lone squatter on a vast prairie, something may be made by turning cattle loose and letting them shirk for themselves; but this is at best transitory, and at war with the exigencies of civilization. Whoever lives within sight of a school-house, or within hearing of a church bell, is under the dominion of a law alike inexorable and beneficent—the law requires each to pay for all he gets, and reap only where he has sown.

You can hardly have a pasture so small that it will not afford hospitality to weeds and prove a source of multiform infestations. The plants that should flourish and be diffused will be kept down to the earth; those which should be warred upon and eradicated will flourish untouched, ripen their seed, and diffuse it far and wide.—Thistles, White Daisy, and every plant that impedes tillage and diminishes crops, are nourished and diffused by means of pastures.

I hold, therefore, that the good farmer will run a mowing machine over his pasture twice each Summer—say early in June, and then late in July—or, if his lot be too rough for this, will have it clipped at least once with a scythe. Cutting all manner of worthless if not noxious plants in the blossom, will benefit the soil which their seeding would tax; it will render the eradication of weeds from your tillage a far easier task; and it will prevent your being a nuisance to your neighbors. I am confident that no one who has formed the habit of keeping down the weeds in his pasture will ever abandon it.

I think each pasture should have (though mine, as yet, has not) a rude shed or other shelter whereto the cattle may resort in case of storm or other inclemency. How much they shrink as well as suffer from one cold, pelting rain, few fully realize; but I am sure that "the merciful man" who, as the Scripture says, "is merciful to his beast," finds his humanity a good paying investment. I doubt that the rule would fail even in Texas; but I am contemplating civilized husbandry, not the rude conditions of tropical barbarism. If only by means of stakes and straw, give cattle a chance to keep dry and warm when they must otherwise shiver through a rainy, windy day and night on the cold, wet ground, and I am sure they will pay for it.

In confining a herd of cattle to such narrow limits, I do not intend that they shall be stinted on what grows there. On the contrary, I expect them to be fed on Winter Rye, on Cut Grass, on Sowed Corn, Sorghum, Stalks, Roots, &c., &c., as each shall be in season. With a good mower, it is a light hour's work before breakfast to cut and cart to a dozen or twenty head as much grass or corn as they will eat during the day. But let that point stand over for the present.

Warm Feet.

If grown people choose to go to bed with cold feet, "what's to hinder?"—Maybe they agree with the irascible old man who, having tried various liniments and emollients without effect, at last defied the offending member: "Ache away, old fellow, I can stand it as long as you can."

But to put into cold sheets feet that should be warm and rosy, but that are numb and blue, is enough to make all the little toes this side of the tropics curl. Some have constitutionally cold feet, that will be cold in spite of woolen stockings, and thick shoes, and any amount of exercise.

The nervous system of children is said to be five times greater proportionately than that of their elders.—Who can doubt it? And certain restless specimens, common to every neighborhood, should be, in justice to ordinary two-footed urchins, ranked as human decapods; for how can one pair of feet accomplish all these juvenile Flinkims do?

But bed-time rolls around, and then the tired limbs, the yielding bones of the growing body, should lie in happy unconstraint: knees and chin should not be brought into unnatural and uncongenial neighborhood. How can they help it when all below the hem of the night-dress is a Nova-Zembla?

If the bed-rooms are warmed, there will be no chill in the mattresses and blankets; but every one knows how it is in a cold room.

We should like to urge all mothers, elder sisters, aunties, and nurses to use either a soapstone, which is easiest, or a warmed crib-blanket, for the feet of their little charges. With that pleasant anticipation, going to bed will be robbed of half of its objections.

There will be fewer coughs and catarrhal colds, digestion will improve, and "awful dreams" become less frequent; there will be no tedious hours of chilly wakefulness. Mother may then, with the good-night kiss, safely invoke "pleasant dreams and sweet repose."—Hearth and Home.

☞ The following good story is told of a zealous English reporter, who nearly got himself into serious trouble by his efforts to get a "beat" on a rival sheet: He lived a mile or so out of town, and on one side of the road" for a considerable part of the way' was a thick grove. As he was returning home, late one night, after having seen the paper to press, he observed that one of the trees near the roadside had an unusual appearance Going within the fence, he discovered that the body of a man was suspended from one of the branches. Hurriedly cutting it down, he drew the body into a part of the grove where the undergrowth was thick, intending to conceal it. This done he went home. Next morning he was taken into custody, on a charge of wilful murder, and brought before a magistrate. A gamekeeper, going through the wood at early daylight, had discovered the body in its place of concealment, and some other person remembered that, about midnight, he had seen the reporter issue from the grove. The case was suspicious—until a constable, searching the pockets of the dead man, discovered a written statement, containing his name and place of abode, and declaring that domestic misfortune had made life so unbearable that he had resolved to commit suicide. Of course the reporter was discharged. His explanation was to the effect that, finding such a fine bit of "local" as this too late for his paper he had concealed the corpse in order that the rival journal, which was to appear on the next day, should not profit by the news.—But for the suicide's confession, a pretty strong case of circumstantial evidence might have been made out against the knight of the pen.

McGUIRE'S

SPANISH HAIR DRESSER

FOR PROMOTING THE GROWTH, BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR,

And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries.—No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S

Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian, and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S

WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth. All these preparations are put up in the most elegant and ornamental manner. We make no exception in saying that they are an ornament to a lady's toilet table, and none complete without them.

Warranted satisfactory or money refunded. Dealers will bear this in mind. Sold by all respectable Druggists in the United States and Canadas. Address orders to

GET THE BEST

READY ROOFING

Suitable for all Buildings, Dwellings, Barns, Churches Factories, &c., and for all climates; equally adapted to flat or steep roofs, and can be applied by any ordinary workman.

THE READY ROOFING

Is more durable than tin, and does not cost one-half as much. It is cheaper than shingles, far more durable, and fire-proof. It is made of the heaviest fabric ever used for the purpose, and is put up in rolls ready for shipment to any part of the world. Send for circular and samples (sent free.)

We also manufacture

GRANITE CEMENT,

For repairing all kinds of leaky roofs, chimneys, sky lights, &c. This Roofing Cement forms a permanent adhesive coating over the whole surface of all roofs, whether tin, shingle or composition, completely closing up leakages, and being composed largely of ground granite, which sets and hardens, and soon becomes an artificial Slate or Stone covering.

ROOF PAINT,

For coating Tin and all kinds of metal and composition roofs. It will not run, crack, or peal off, but form a permanent and perfect protection, wherever placed. It is furnished at half the cost, and possesses twice the durability of the common oil paints used for such purposes.

County rights for sale.
